The American Legion launches a Youth Program Alumni Association

For many years, Americanism and Children & Youth programs have helped young adults excel professionally and academically, and become active and well-respected citizens in their community. In an effort to capture and share former program participants’ accomplishments, experiences, and words of wisdom, The American Legion recently launched its first-ever Youth Programs Alumni Association website, www.legion.org/youthalumni.

The American Legion Youth Programs Alumni Association will afford members the opportunity to share memories, foster relationships, search for former participants, volunteer with a program, donate to a program at the local or national level, and much more. Members will also receive an e-newsletter featuring youth success stories and exciting program updates.

We encourage you to spread the word about the exciting new American Legion Youth Programs Alumni Association to fellow post members.
