"Now, I'll have reliable transportation back and forth to college ... Without organizations like The American Legion, most veterans' stories would end with 'the end' instead of 'to be continued.' For me, it means everything because I have another shot at life."

- Army National Guard veteran Patrick Huber, a Hagerstown, Md., Community College student, who received a 2025 Chevy Trax from USAA after he was nominated for the prize by The American Legion and received it Dec. 10 during festivities leading up to the Army-Navy Game

STATEMENT

"Reclassification is not legalization and does not mandate use. It simply removes federal barriers to research and informed decision-making. It promotes transparency, clinician oversight, informed consent, and honest patient-provider discussions – reducing unsafe self-medication. Supporting reclassification demonstrates the Legion's commitment to science, oversight, and saving lives through evidence-based public health policy."

- American Legion National Commander Dan K. Wiley after joining President Donald J. Trump at The White House Dec. 18 for the signing of an executive order reclassifying marijuana to legally permit federal research into its medical efficacy
