What nationwide program revolves around community celebrations on Armed Forces Day?

The Blue Star Banner program
Patented by an Army officer during World War I, the banners hung in windows became the unofficial symbol that a child of the house was serving in the military. Its use was widespread during World War I and World War II, but dropped precipitately after that. The American Legion rekindled and encouraged the program after 9/11, to drive home the point that this new struggle facing the U.S. military ultimately touches all Americans, whether directly or not.

May’s Armed Forces Day – the national holiday that united the separate days for honoring the separate service branches after those branches were united under the Department of Defense – is a perfect time to hold what the Legion calls Blue Star Salutes, community festivals to show appreciation for local service members and their families. Posts can hold Salutes with other community organizations, as well as local National Guard and reserve stations and/or military bases. The Legion offers a free guide to help plan a Blue Star Salute on www.legion.org/publications.
Prayer for Memorial Day

Gracious God,
On this Memorial Day, we pray for those who courageously laid down their lives for the cause of freedom. May the examples of their sacrifice inspire in us the selfless love of Your Son, our Lord Jesus Christ.
Bless the families of our fallen troops, and fill their homes and their lives with Your strength and peace.
In union with people of goodwill of every nation, embolden us to answer the call to work for peace and justice, and thus, seek an end to violence and conflict around the globe.
We ask this through your name.
Amen.
